A SHORT SKETCH OF THE OHIO STATE CHAPTER

CALIFORNIA QUAKE

LOS ANGELES, CALIF. (M. S.) At the time of the first quake (5:55 p. M., March 10) Dr. John Wright, AZ, Staff Orthopedic Surgeon, was operating in the amphitheatre of the Los Angeles General Hospital. The patient was under a general anesthetic and therefore did not jump off the table and run. The heavy suspension lamp swayed back and forth several feet while the plates fell from the walls. The operation, however, was completed and things have gone all right with the patient.

Dr. Jas. Gafford, AZ, narrowly missed death and escaped by being late to his office, which was completely demolished.

Dr. Edgar A. Lutz, Γ, was in charge of the General's internes who served on relief work in the affected district, under him were Warren Roe, XH, Robert Brua, AΔ, Clarence Nelson, AZ, Marshall Stewart, AΔ, James Plastino, Δ, Gabriel Rivera, AΔ, Van R. Hamilton, Δ.

The Nelson home in Long Beach was extensively damaged.

WINS BOK AWARD

Dr. Earl D. Bond Gives Prize to Hospital—Distinguished Phi Rho Honored

The Philadelphia award of $10,000 established by Mr. Edward Bok, insignia of distinctive community service for more than a decade, was given this year to Dr. Earl D. Bond, Chief of the Institute for Mental Hygiene. Roland S. Morris, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Philadelphia award termed the institution involuntary in its technique of treatment of mental disorders and a model which the world of applied psychology is copying.

Dr. Bond the next day established a free fund for mental patients with the $10,000 check that accompanied the award.

OMEGA '14-'20

The House at 122 Buttles Ave., Columbus, O.

The College of Medicine of the Ohio State University is one of the very oldest medical schools west of the Appalachian Mountains with a continuous existence for ninety-nine years. Founded at Willoughby, Ohio, in 1834, it has given a session of instruction every year since. Until 1847 at Willoughby. In 1848, in Columbus still as the Willoughby Medical College. In 1849 began the Starling Medical College which united with the Ohio Medical University in 1907 to form the Starling-Ohio Medical College which was taken over by the Ohio State University in 1914.

Professional fraternities at Ohio State University have progressed hand in hand with the development of the university and its social fraternities.

The first professional fraternity in the school was a chapter of Xi Psi Phi Dental, founded in the Department of Dentistry of the old Ohio Medical University in 1896.

The next to organize were the medical students of the Starling Medical College where a local roup was given a charter from Phi Beta Pi in 1900. This chapter was composed of a small group of medical students who proceeded to elect a considerable number of honorary members from the distinguished physicians of the city, chiefly from their own faculty. The chapter went on for four years, the charter being recalled October 13, 1905. When a couple of years later the Starling Medical College was merged with the Ohio Medical University, a goodly number of these men were elected as honorary members of the fraternities that existed in that school. In mentioning the more prominent members of Phi Beta Pi, we have mentioned the later affiliations of these men. Those prominent in the group are Dr. Evan C. Brock, A. M., ΠΩ, Surgeon; Dr. William D. Deuschle, Neurologist, A. M., ΠΩ; Dr. Charles F. Clark, Ophthalmologist; Dr. Charles H. Hoffhine, Laryngologist, A. M., ΠΩ; Curtis C. Howard, Chemist; Dr. F. E. Lawrence, Surgeon, A. M., ΠΩ; Dr. Dickson L. Moore, Pediatrician; James McI. Phillips, Pathologist; C. O. Probst, Tuberculosis Specialist; C. C. Ross; R. J. Sprague of Athens, Ohio; J. D. Smith, Surgeon of Akron, Ohio; H. G. Southard, Health Commissioner of Ohio; Sterling B. Taylor, Surgeon for the New York Central Lines; J. M. Thomas; Frank Warner, Surgeon, $\phi\chi$.

This same year Alpha Mu Pi Omega was founded at the Ohio Medical University by the students of Dr. D. N. Kinsman, through his Masonic acquaintance he obtained for them a charter of this fraternity. The charter group consisted of Drs. D. N. Kinsman, Clarence F. Schiltz, C. W. McGavran, A. C. Cotes, F. M. Foster, Ernest Scott, C. A. Stephens, Frank Casto, Murray B. McConigle, and J. H. Young.

On October 2, 1902, the Pi Chapter of Alpha Kappa Kappa was installed. Its charter members were Drs. James M. Rector, Jesse B. Sampsell, H. R. Kauffman, C. E. Pfeiffer, D. E. Little, M. S. Lawrence, C. G. Dew, P. Benner, Ned. M. Goodhue, R. J. Seymour, C. B. Hatch, R. E. Smucker, A. G. Ringer, L. G. De La Mache.

In 1903, seventeen men in the Ohio Medical University banded themselves togther to form a fraternity: Walton F. Dutton, I. Herbert Tobias, Harry L. Bounds, John H. Mattern, Jacob P. Bottenhorn, Clark M. Smith, Charles B. Bonzo, A. J. Quimby, A. A. Partello, Glenn I. Goodrich, Jay C. Johnson, Fred S. Clark, John W. Whithis, Andrew C. Callahan, Ralph P. Gaskell and Charles R. Fishel were organized by F. S. Clark and A. J. Quimby with R. H. Smith as president. Clark and Quimby had been in correspondence with one of the founders of Phi Delta, Dr. C. F. Baxter at the Long Island College Hospital. This chapter grew and prospered.

Due to the discontinuance of several medical schools, several chapters of Phi Delta became inactive. This was the state of affairs in the fall of 1917, when there remained only three chapters at the Long Island College Hospital, Loyola and the Chicago College of Medicine and Surgery. The merger with Theta Kappa Psi took place on January 26, 1918.

Probably the most important event in the history of this group occurred in the school year 1906-07, when Dr. E. A. Hamilton, Professor of Proctology, accepted an invitation to become an honorary member. He at once became the inspiring leader, a position he held up to the present time.

In 1912 Dr. E. A. Hamilton, the well known Proctologist, was in close contact with the chapter giving both material help and inspiration in things professional. Dr. Halbert Blakey, Γ; Dr. E. F. McCampbell, Γ; Dr. H. M. Platter, Secretary of the State Board of Health, and Dr. A. M. Steinfeld, Professor of Orthopedics. Dr. C. A. Hoy, A, and Dr. Phillip D. Wilson, N, came frequently to discuss the seriousness of medicine.

On November 15, 1913, the Ohio State Chapter of Phi Chi was founded by C. L. Maxwell, R. C. Parr, A. Madeisky, F. L. Rhodes, R. D. Helwig, W. M. Hartinger, R. F. Sayer Jr., F. V. Gainmage, S. C. Schiller, B. B. Hurd, and A. H. Gabriel. The chapter has been strengthened by the arrival of several alumni of other chapters who have come to Columbus either to establish themselves in practice or to accept university positions. Through careful direction of Herbert Emswiler and the rigid enforcement of an accounting system the financial affairs have been kept in good shape. At the present time a house is maintained at 354 West Ninth Avenue.

In 1912-13, the local Chapter of Phi Delta at Ohio State was unsuccessful in attempts to obtain contacts with the other Chapters and the feeling grew that this group must be a part of an active national group if it was to survive the increasing entrance requirements and the impending merger of the school with the University. The Chapter, therefore, withdrew and a carefully conceived and executed plan was carried through by Dr. Thomas Haines. Dr. Thomas Haines, Ph. D., Professor of Psychology in the Ohio State University, was at that time a junior student of medicine. Phi Rho Sigma was petitioned under the direction of Dr. E. F. McCampbell, Γ, at that time Health Commissioner of Ohio, and two years later to become Dean of the new College of Medicine, aided by Dr. Carl D. Hoy, A, and Dr. Halbert Blakey, Γ. McCampbell's sponsoring of the group was accepted. In place of an inspection by nation officer the assurance by McCampbell and President Thompson of the University, that within a few months the school would be taken over, the charter was granted. Installation by Dr. E. W. Weinstrand, A, the Grand President and Clifford Grulee took place on February 22, 1913.

The student members of the local Chapter of A. M., $\Pi\Omega$ became aware of the inactive character of the Society and disgusted with faculty dominance of the intimate details of the Chapter life. In the spring of 1914 they, therefore, withdrew from the Fraternity, surrendering the Charter, which was immediately taken over by another group of non-fraternity men in the school at that time. The group which withdrew organized themselves as an independent local organization and took the name of AΩ.

In this move Dr. Jonathan Forman, Dr. V. A. Dodd, Dr. E. J. Gordon and Dr. Sam Forsythe were most active. This organization went ahead with its faculty members and operated as a fraternity should.

In the fall of 1915, the first class entered the University with the two-year pre-Medical requirements. It was small indeed but Phi Rho Sigma fired with the enthusiasm of last spring had pledged Neal Burrell, Russell Means, Link Murphy and Paul Charleton. Later Briggs was to return from the war to finish.

This same year Dr. Hamilton was in Germany for the American Red Cross. The next year he spent on the Mexican border with the Ohio National Guard. E. J. Gordon, Paul Charleton, John E. Briggs were also in this service.

During these days Drs. Thomas G. McCormuck, $\Phi P\Sigma$, and Harry Minthorn, AΩ, were thrown together by reason of their section work in the classes. These two conceived the idea of uniting the two groups. The faculty members were won over to this.

For many years Pi Delta obtained a house next door south of the Medical School. In 1911 the Chapter rented a large stone house at the corner of Denison and Hubbard Avenues where they were happily situated. Here they were living when they received the Charter of Phi Rho Sigma. After careful negotiations with the local alumni the two groups were merged in April, 1914, and moved to the Alpha Omega house at 122 Buttles Avenue which they maintained as a home until after the World War.

In 1916 E. F. McCampbell, Γ, resigned the position of Secretary of the Ohio State Board of Health to become the Dean of the College of Medicine. In these days P. A. Davis was teaching Physiological Chemistry and was most active in the Chapter. He was the first of our Chapter to go in for the collection of Greek Letter Badges and Honorary Keyes. He is now well known for his work in Industrial Medicine in the rubber industry.

In the spring of 1917, Herman ("Tubby") Walters died at the Protestant Hospital of Ludwig's Angina. Dr. C. S. Means, Dr. V. A. Dodd, Dr. John Means, Dr. E. J. Gordon and Dr. Roscoe P. Albaugh were especially close to the active Chapter. Russell Crawford transferred to Northwestern for his Senior year. With the coming of spring, the war with Germany began. Many Seniors were graduated early to enter the navy.

During the summer Dr. V. A. Dodd took out a base hospital for the U. S. Navy—Dr. Forman went as Pathologist to this unit. Most of the local alumni entered the army leaving the active Chapters upon its own.

Of the many members of the faculty who entered the service of their country, an unusually high percentage were Phi Rhos.

Ohio State, like most of the midwestern Universities, were victims of the war hysteria. There was a feeling that the war would last for many years and that the Medical Schools must continue to have an adequate number of Medical personnel for the army, consequently the student body was organized as a part of the reserve of the army and the student body was placed in "barracks."

This made it very difficult for the Chapter, and for several months the boys assessed themselves enough to pay the rent on the house, although no one lived in it.

In 1918 Hadley Teter, Lt. jg U. S. N., went down with his ship, the Tampa, in the North Sea and Burrell was killed in action on the western front.

After the war the Chapter moved to Hubbard Avenue and under the driving force of Drs. Link Murphy, Russell Means, A. H. Howell, Harry Stewart and others the Chapter took new life and a movement was furthered for the purchase of a home. This had begun even before the war. Under the leadership of men who consummated the merger with Alpha Omega and all the men of Alpha Omega and the upper classmen signed a note for $100, payable in installments. By the time the Chapter moved to Hubbard Avenue these collections had amounted to about $1500. With the movement of more and more work at the campus the house was moved to the corner of Worthington and Eighth Avenue where the Chapter initiated a considerable number of men who had or were distinguishing themselves on the famous football teams. Under the direction of Dr. A. K. Howell, and the movement to purchase a home grew to larger proportions, the Chapter agreed to assess each of its members $5.00 a quarter during their residency. This plan was to supersede the note taking promises of the preceding college generation. In a short time another $500 was added to the house fund.

In 1921, Mark W. Jacoby was elected Grand Recorder of the Fraternity. He and Mrs. Jacoby beginning where Dr. Roy Barlow, Z, and Mrs. Barlow, left off, worked hard for two years at building up the biographical files of the Grand Chapter and furnishing the editor of the Journal with an accurate mailing list.

This same year Jonathan Forman was elected Grand Councillor of the Erie District. In 1923, he assumed the position of Grand Vice President and Editor—a position he has held continuously since.

The Ohio State Chapter of Phi Delta Epsilon was installed on December 6, 1921. The charter members were H. J. Cowan, L. M. Picalt, M. Dolganos, M. M. Linder, I. A. Fine, J. A. Ziskin, M. P. Kanter, and E. E. Woldman. The Chapter has had a successful career and maintains a house at 203 West Tenth Avenue.

In the summer of 1924 there was on hand $2,338.07. Rents were continuing to rise, most any passable house was renting for $250.00 to $300.00 per month and they were really scarce at that price. A committee of Alumni now set about looking for a suitable house. This committee consisted of those Alumni interested in real estate, Drs. E. J. Gordon, E. M. Hamilton, A. M. Steinfeld, Russell Means, and Link Murphy.

As a result of this survey on September 30, 1924, a home in the name of Phi Rho Sigma was purchased from Charles L. Easley, 1520 Neil Avenue, on a land contract and the agreement was signed by Drs. E. J. Gordon, Russell Means and Link Murphy as trustees. For four years things moved on schedule, then came the depression which slowed up the rate of payment.

In the summer of 1928 the dormitory of the house was remodeled, a new bath room and shower baths were installed, and a fire escape built at the rear. To finance this Fraters Hatfield, Forman, Helfrich, Drown, Baxter, Steinfeld, Taylor, Gordon, Mauger, Gauchet, Hamiltons, Russell Means, Miller, McCullough, McCormick, John W. Means, Rogers, Nosker, made individual loans to the Phi Rho Sigma House Company, $2,800.00.

The Ohio State Chapter of Omega Upsilon Phi was established on January 21, 1928, by a group of pre-medical and medical students proctored by A. W. Hodgman, professor of classical languages.

In 1930, Dr. C. S. Means died and left the sum of two thousand dollars to the Fraternity to be loaned to worthy medical students. This has been set up as a separate fund by the Grand Chapter, known as the Charles S. Means Memorial Fund.

The depression has continued to produce its devastating effect on the purses of the students. By careful plan, unusual thrift and loyalty the chapter has carried on, reducing the loan on the house in a satisfactory manner.

In the spring of 1930 the house was redecorated by the chapter aided by contributions from 28 of the local alumni.

In 1931 John Warvel was elected a Grand Councillor. So Omega has supplied to the fraternity at large three members of the Grand Council and so has had representation on that body for the last twelve years.

The outstanding thing about Omega Chapter is the presence in Columbus of fifty alumni who have been through many tough spots together. They have exhibited deep loyalty many times and can be depended upon to meet whatever situation may arise. What is even more important they have exhibited an unusual interest in the career of each active member. This resulted several years ago in the institution of fireside talks, monthly at first and now twice each month. So by intimate acquaintance, by precept, and by contact, the traditions of our fraternity and of our profession are inculcated into the minds of the specially selected group of medical students.

So Phi Rho Sigma is at Ohio State not by chance but by choice. Omega Chapter is rich in tradition for good fellowship, for stimulating contacts, and professional ideals. It has had its trials and tribulations which at the time have looked big. Many of its members have made very considerable sacrifices for none of them are rich. They have stuck together, met every crisis, and come through with credit to their school and their profession. Thus Phi Rho Sigma has come to stand for the best in medicine and to be the dearest thing in the memory of each of her sons at Ohio State.

Vol. XXIX March-April, 1933 No. 6-7

THIS journal is published by the Fraternity with the hope that it will be read by every living member and in an attempt to interpret the life of the medical student and the work of the Fraternity to the individual alumnus.

THE BLUE SLIP

IN this number again you will find a renewal slip for your subscription to Chapter International of PHI RHO SIGMA. If you have already sent in your subscription for 1933, please ignore. If on the other hand you have not, your renewal will be greatly appreciated as the work of the fraternity must go on.

MEMBERS of Phi Rho Sigma regret deeply the death of the eminent Scottish naturalist, Sir John Arthur Thompson, the father of David L. Thompson, Grand Councillor of φPE.

THE BOOSTER BOOK

DURING the coming summer the fraternity will publish a booster book containing the story of each chapter something like that told last year by George Williams about Phi Rho Sigma in Emory University or like the Ohio State story told in this number. In addition the book will contain the list of brothers on the respective faculties of medicine throughout United States and Canada. These will be followed by the Phi Rhos in the various special societies arranged geographically. These data together with many other interesting points about the fraternity will make it a worthwhile book for the office library of every member of Phi Rho Sigma. A prepublication price of two dollars is offered to all who wish to avail themselves of it. The regular price will be three dollars.

INDIVIDUAL souls constitute the most important product of system of society. Throwing a wall, either stone or spiritual, around a people sets them back thousands of years. Progress demands democracy. We love liberty because it means the more people are allowed to do on their own account the more will they discover, invent, and add to human knowledge and ultimate human happiness. Hence we are opposed to Socialism, Fascism and our own Big Business. They represent the same fundamental idea of controlling society for its own immediate good and their profit or power.

It seems, therefore, to us that physicians should oppose State Medicine on principle, should oppose the regulations of licenses and the regimentation and standards of all persons dealing in health.

—Jonathan Forman, Ω.

FOR years now we have been taught to believe that ordinary people cannot be trusted very far. That without expert direction we cannot select our own food, choose our own clothes, invest our own money or provide our own recreation. We have been taught to train for jobs rather than independent careers, to depend on organization, rather than on our own initiative, to be content with rented apartments, instead of a home, and a pay check rather than an income. Mass regulation by government agencies is a national by-product of the private paternalism to which we have gladly subjected ourselves. State Medicine fits naturally into this degrading scheme of things by which the future of the race is sacrificed for its immediate convenience and gain.

—Jonathan Forman, Ω.

DR. LELAND HUNNICUTT, AZ, has been recently appointed professor of Bronchoscopy in the College of Medical Evangelists at Los Angeles.

TIME

WALTER M. SIMPSON, Z, recently drew a column in the magazine, Time, about his report to the American College of Physicians of his work with the 30 meter broadcasting machine as a "fever-machine." Elliott Cutler, N, and his associate, Robert M. Zollinger, Ω, appeared more recently in the same publication in connection with their use of a caustic solution to obliterate cervical fistulæ.

It's been quite a few years since I've been out of school. Some of the men are calling me "old-timer." It's true I wear garters now to keep my socks up. Sometimes I'm even seen wearing a boiled shirt in the daytime and how my "undergrad" friends would laugh at it. It's also true that I've worked for my fraternity during these years and sometimes I'm called a schoolboy by my associates for the interest I still display.

And I wear my fraternity badge, I wear it conspicuously. I wear it because it reminds me of the ideals of my fraternity. I wear it because it's an inspiration to t he younger man to see an "old-timer" still wearing it. I wear it because it reminds the older men about the fraternity. I wear it because it is the symbol of years of pleasant associations. It's never left me. I gave my wife a Sweetheart Pin but I still wear my badge. I'll wear it till my son gets his and then I'll swap with him. I'll give him mine so he can share in my memories and I'll wear his until it gets old with traditions of its own.

MEDICAL BIOGRAPHIES

Frank Queen, Alpha Delta, Editor

XB Was Originally Named the Robert Battey Chapter.

ROBERT BATTEY: Pioneer Gynecologist (1829-1895).

Battey was born in Richmond County, Georgia. He was the son of Cephas Battey, a native of Peru, Clinton County, New York, and Mary, a daughter of George Magruder of Richmond County, Georgia. He was educated at Augusta, Georgia, Phillips Academy at Andover, Mass. He studied medicine at Booth's Laboratory in Philadelphia, the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy from which he was graduated in 1856; and from the Jefferson Medical College from which he was graduated in 1857. He returned to Rome, Georgia, where he lived for the remainder of his life except for the interval from November, 1872, to November, 1875, during which he resided temporarily in Atlanta as Professor of Obstetrics in the Atlanta Medical College and editor of the Atlanta Medical and Surgical Journal.

During his lifetime there was an unusually brilliant group of men in medicine in the state of Georgia, and Battey was outstanding in this group. Following his graduation and a year spent in study in Paris, the war between the states claimed him for four years. It was in 1872 that his place in American medicine became fixed. In the Atlanta Medical and Surgical Journal in that year he reported the case of a woman aged 30 who for 16 years had been an invalid, having menstruated but twice in that period. An oophorectomy after his original method was performed and brought relief. This operation, be it clearly understood, was done with the view to effect the change of life in women and thereby to remedy effectually certain otherwise incurable maladies. In 1859, he devised and successfully used an improved apparatus for vesico-vaginal fistula.

In 1872, Battey was called to the chair of obstetrics in the Atlanta Medical College. Here he remained for three years. In 1872, at the Medical College he demonstrated that water may be passed through the entire body from rectum to mouth, issuing from the mouth of anesthetized patients and in the cadaver. Many modifications of treatment as well as new methods came from Battey's fertile mind. He devised a new method of treating clubbed feet by the use of craved wooden splints and roller bandages. He originated iodized phenol and did a perineal section for chronic cystitis.

In 1876, Dr. Battey returned to his beloved Rome and lived there until he died in 1895, devoting his attention to gynecological practice. He was married to Martha B. Smith on December 20, 1849, at Rome. She bore him fourteen children. He was not a prolific writer but stated his thesis briefly and lucidly. He was elected president of the American Gynecological Society in 1889 and received the degree of LL. D. from the Jefferson Medical College in 1890.

WHEN TO TALK BUSINESS

H. S. HULBERT, M. D., Z.

Internes especially need to know the technique of private practice. The rule is simple, but it takes resolution to put it into effect.

No graduate of a Class A school will starve after his interneship in a good hospital. That is, unless he impairs or destroys himself with alcoholism, drugs, or women.

When he first starts private practice, most of his patients will be the chronics of the community; approximately half desiring new help; and half, the deadbeats, desiring further excuse to be comfortably ill while damning the medical profession and they will ruin all who have truck with them. Incidentally there are also three other minor groups, all valuable: emergency, neighbors, and cases referred by friends (personal and professional) or relatives. Vaughan's dictum holds: "See any patient once, and you will be rich in knowledge of human pathology."

With the chronics at least, but largely with all cases, this is the best method.

1. Take a history, as is usual in dispensary and hospital practice. This will give a "size-up" of the case.

2. Before making any examination at all, but maybe while fingering a stethoscope on the desk, lay down the pen and talk business. "Treatment will cost money. Who will be responsible for payment? It is best if this be made clear before any charges are incurred. I have the policy of either cash at each call or payment in larger bills of one-half at the end of the month and one-half at the end of the second month.

"In a case of this nature my fee is $..... per office call after the first one (say $2.50), house calls $..... (say $3.00), hospital calls $..... (say $2.00), and the first call including diagnosis and examination $..... (say $5.00).

"You'd rather pay monthly? Then please sign this."*

Then proceed with the examining, diagnosing, and prescribing or treating.

The dead-beats and knockers will not return. The others will respect the new doctor—"He's a business man and a good doctor."

If they say they can not pay, tell them you are pleased to see them this once and treat them, and you will give them a note to the public dispensary.

However, if the case comes as a free patient, referred by some social agency who presumably knows the lack of assets to be true, such as the Salvation Army, of course treat them fully. One-fifth to one-third of a doctor's time is given freely, and this includes teaching time.

If two come, patient and husband, or patient and mother for example, it is still more imperative in these days of insurance, divorce, death, or ageing, that one of them signs the attached footnote. These may be bought and a carbon copy kept.

That's it. At the proper moment between history taking and examining, and before touching the corpus to talk business.

*(A2M.)

CHAPTER MANAGEMENT AT IOWA

Iota Chapter's management rests within the hands of the Iota Investment Company, the Chapter Executive Committee, and the Chapter Steward.

The Iota Investment Company is composed of alumni who have so willingly made possible Iota's present Chapter House. A monthly sum is paid by the active chapter to the company, listed under chapter items as, house rent and building fund. The company disposes of this money in the form of taxes, insurance, upkeep of the present structure, and payment of the small standing mortgage. This money is assessed from the active member with monthly bills as room rent and building fund. Two dollars per month is paid as a building fund by all actives which applies on the $100 house note acquired by each man when initiated. Through this agency also, many legal matters are taken care of by the alumni, relieving the active chapter of such duties. Through this association we have received many benefits and valuable suggestions regarding our financial problems.

The executive committee begins its duties with a meeting scheduled the day before registration. At this meeting the results of summer rushing and the type of men submitted for pledging are discussed. In the long run a successful chapter depends largely upon the type of men of which it is made up. Balance of the previous years finances is also discussed. Any surplus from the preceding year is used to purchase necessities for the house, any remaining is maintained as an emergency fund. Using previous house bills and the surplus which they brought, a readjustment is made. Considering existing food prices a definite rate is established which is of the least expense to the member, and yet properly maintain the chapter. This year the entire cost of maintenance of each member per month totals $39.00. This includes room, board, chapter dues, and building fund. Special assessments are made for parties, and national dues. During those months at which times vacations occur, allowance is made for the days absent. Chapter dues and building fund, plus room and board are assessed for the days present in June and September. This gives a man quite an exact approximation of what his maintenance will be for the year.

The Chapter Steward working in conjunction with the executive committee is maintained as treasurer and general house manager. Considerable load is carried by the man in this capacity. Perhaps his greatest difficulty is buying. This, at Iota, has given us very little trouble however. No cooperative buying is done in connection with other groups. Competitive buying, and change of market or laundry has aided greatly in maintaining the cost of food materials at the best advantage. Quality of the food should not be sacrificed however. Much depends also upon the kitchen equipment and those in charge, to properly utilize to the best advantage all food articles. Iota Chapter has also been greatly aided by alumni, who have made it possible for us to economize considerably in buying.

The second difficulty encountered by the steward is to see that all house bills are fully taken care of at the proper time. Unpaid bills have given Iota some, but not an alarming amount of trouble. Each man is subject to fine if his bill is not fully taken care of 10 days after it is issued at the office. Suspension is left to the discretion of the executive committee, but rarely if ever occurs. Bills being allowed to stand either after graduation or after closing of the school term, have been well taken care of by cooperation with the school authorities. A statute stands which reads as follows: "Any man being a candidate for graduation having failed to meet all his obligations towards his fraternity or otherwise, shall not receive his degree until such is taken care of, and, any man having left school at the end of term, owing his fraternity or otherwise, shall not be allowed to register the following term until such is taken care of." The enforcement of this rule by school authorities is left entirely up to the fraternity, which must request enforcement if so desired.

Auditing at Iota is not greatly stressed, as it should and has not been necessary. An auditing committee is appointed each year by the president consisting of two active members. It is the duty of this committee to inspect and check all records made by the treasurer. If it is deemed necessary by this and the executive committee to have a certified accountant employed, this is arranged. Auditing does however reveal items of unnecessary expense and may also unfold periods showing lack of interest on the part of those handling the chapter's money.

This in short is Iota's method of managing its chapter. It does not rogidly conform with that given in the manual. Please, however, do not draw the hurried conclusion that we do not think well of the budgeting system. Perhaps in the last analysis the real basis of our system is similar to this. Our present method has proven very satisfactory, giving us best of results making it possible to meet all our obligations at or before request, and maintain a most active chapter.
